June 19, 1919 was, as Lena Montesano’s father claimed, “A lucky day: 191919.” Her birthday. Now just over 100 years old, Lena seems as lively as someone many years younger. She still resides in the same home where she and her husband moved over sixty years ago. She lives what she describes as a “quiet life” which she prefers. Her husband died over 30 years ago, so she doesn’t go out much anymore, just occasionally to a church function, or when a friend or family member takes her on outings.

Lena was born in Rio Dell near Scotia, a company town founded by the Pacific Lumber Company. She had five sisters and one brother. Her father worked at the mill until his allergies from the wood dust became intolerable. Then the family moved to San Jose where Lena graduated high school.

“I didn’t go to college, because in those days, it was expected that the women would get married and raise a family.” Which Lena did. In fact, she and her sister married brothers. She mused that her older sister married the younger brother and she married the older one. The brothers Montesano opened a store in Crocket called “The Loring Ave. Grocery & Deli” which they ran for 48 years. Lena also worked at the store while raising their two sons, one who loved working with wood and became a contractor and the other who became a criminal defense attorney. She has 3 grandchildren and 4 great-grandchildren.

Lena also volunteered for St. Rose Catholic church in Crocket, often being called upon to create raffle items. Two of her favorites (pictured) were a turkey made from the feathers of a friend’s parrot that was always shedding and the other was a fish made of dollars for the church fish-fry.

Lena loves word puzzles and is thrilled when the Meals on Wheels volunteers drop by. “I appreciate the time they take to deliver meals. They are so nice, all of them. And the meals, without them I wouldn’t be able to stay at home. So I’m very happy. I get to meet wonderful people who bring my food. You can’t have anything better than that. There’s no place like home, so when you can stay in your own home, you are very lucky.”
LEADING WITH HEART

In the last newsletter I wrote about our heartbreaking but also budget breaking dilemma of whether the countywide Meals on Wheels Program could continue to provide a second daily meal to approximately 400 of our most economically disadvantaged homebound elders who were discovered to have no other food in their homes beyond the single daily Meals on Wheels deliveries. This decision came with a price tag of more than $300,000 for this year alone to maintain a second meal service to those currently receiving them, and would cause the Meals on Wheels Program to be nearly a quarter million dollars in the red for the current fiscal year.

I am pleased and proud to tell you that the Meals on Wheels of Contra Costa Board of Directors at their last quarterly meeting decided to take a considerable dip into our contingency reserve funds to cover this enormous budget shortfall, and allow the program to continue providing those second meals for at least the current fiscal year. This action will put a considerable dent in our contingency reserves going forward, but from a humanitarian standpoint it was deemed by our MOW of CC Board to be the right thing to do for these the 400 least fortunate of our Meals on Wheels recipients. Contrary to what one might suspect, Meals on Wheels program participants in economic distress and desperately in need of a second daily meal reside in virtually every community in our county. They truly are all of our neighbors whether you live in Danville or North Richmond, Bethel Island or Moraga.

Since the founding of Meals on Wheels of Contra Costa, Inc. in 1990, to raise funds from the community to subsidize direct Meals on Wheels services for homebound elders in need, our Board has embarked on a policy that during financially “good years” we would bank any excess proceeds so that the countywide Meals on Wheels Program could avoid program services reductions in the lean years. This has worked out very well in all but one year since then. This occurred near the end of the “Great Recession” when too many lean years in a row had exhausted our contingency reserves. The program was forced to freeze new participant additions to the program until services were reduced by attrition to a level we had funds to subsidize. Luckily the shortfall at that time was not as large as it is this year, so we were able to lift the freeze after just a few months.

So, “safe for now” is the operable phrase. Like any savings account, when it’s gone, it’s gone, so we can only hope for increased donations or grants from the community before that happens. For now, your generous help for your homebound elderly neighbors has once again made an important difference in the lives of our most needy Meals on Wheels Program participants.

Thank you for your continued generous help,

Paul

A special way to help...

Answers to your questions about leaving a bequest to Meals on Wheels of Contra Costa

Q-What is a bequest?
A-A bequest provides a specific amount of money, a percentage of an estate, or a certain piece of property to a charitable organization at the time of death. For most people this involves naming a charity as a beneficiary in a will, codicil, life insurance policy or retirement plan or by making a gift of real estate.

Q-What is the benefit of making such a gift?
A-Often a planned gift offers a charitable-minded person the chance to leave a special legacy without compromising his or her current financial situation. Some planned gifts can offer immediate tax benefits during life as well.

Q-Is it difficult or complicated to leave a planned gift?
A-Typically no. The first step is to contact an attorney who can advise you on setting up a gift that ensures your wishes are followed. Sample language is provided on the back page that should make the process even easier.

Q-Why does Meals on Wheels of Contra Costa want to know that I have named it as a beneficiary in my estate plans?
A-When a generous donor includes Meals on Wheels of Contra Costa in their will or estate plans, we want to have the opportunity to thank them for their heartfelt gesture by acknowledging them through our exclusive Meals on Wheels Legacy Society. Knowing about future planned gifts also helps us plan for growth to meet the growing needs of our community.

Another successful Foodie Fest! The 4th annual Foodie Fest (FF) brought out record numbers thanks to Jill Scheidel (pictured below with live auction item “I Love Martinez”) who dedicates herself annually to numerous causes including Meals on Wheels of Contra Costa, Inc. In fact next year, FF will move to a larger space. The food contributions included offerings from WiseGirl, Roxx on Main and Slow Hand BBQ. And many individual contributions. And thanks to the committee: Jill Scheidel, Nicole Musser, Heather Prewitt, Cathy Gromacki, Lana Hanlon, Amy Baldwin, Beverly Lloyd and Marti Carlson for their insights and heavy lifting.

Also, thank you to our awesome volunteers: Bruce Holloway, Scotty O’Neill, Lena Scheidel, Andrea DeVille, Sophia DeVille, Sue Mitchell, Jane Gosney, Chris Contant, Adam Stone, AJ Kennedy, Greg Earley, Jenny Starmack, Linda Monroe, Kayla Brooks, College Park Key Club, and Acalanes Key Club, and the community supporting meals for our frail homebound seniors. A special shout-out to Lesley Stiles, our kitchen manager. And all the musicians who donated their time and talents to keeping us entertained for 5 hours!

Fall Produce Picks to Add to Your Plate

Choosing produce that is in season offers several benefits. First, it tastes better because it has been allowed to ripen naturally. Second, seasonal produce is fresher and has more antioxidants. Also, seasonal food is cheaper because farmers will be harvesting the crop in abundance. Seasonal food is more likely to be locally produced, which reduces the load on the environment due to transport.

Pumpkin
Pumpkin is full of fiber and beta-carotene, which provides its vibrant orange color. Beta-carotene converts into vitamin A in the body, which is great for your skin and eyes. To balance pumpkin’s sweetness, try adding savory herbs, such as sage and curry.

Sweet Potatoes
Another great source of fiber, sweet potatoes also are packed with vitamin A and potassium. Their mellow, sweet taste works in all kinds of recipes. Slice into thin “coins” and toss with canola or olive oil before roasting.

Pears
Pears are the most delicious in the fall when they’re at their peak. Pears are unique in that they do not ripen on the tree; they will ripen at room temperature after they’re picked. How do you know when they are ready to eat? Check the neck! If the fruit near the stem gives to a little pressure, it is ripe. If you eat the peel too, one medium pear has 6 grams of fiber.

Apples
Apples pack a powerful nutrition punch. They are a good source of vitamin C and fiber. Sprinkle apple slices with ground cinnamon or pair with cheese or peanut butter for an easy snack.
